Do you ever get the feeling real estate agents care more about the commissions than they care about you? CJ Holmes is not your typical agent/broker. She is a rare find. She invests time and energy in YOU. She assesses your goals and portfolio to help you prosper.

Her priority is to structure your assets and put you in control of your future. Her goal is not just to sell you a property. Of course, if that's what you need at the moment, she will be sure it is the best find and fit for you. But CJ is a visionary. She sees the bigger picture and is willing to share that vision with you if you want.

Especially in this market, CJ can picture the first-time homebuyer as the millionaire real estate investor in five to ten years. She can and will maneuver you through the real estate maze to a financially comfortable retirement, knowing that each purchase is either an enhancement or a set back.

CJ's advice is priceless. She offers complete & blunt feedback on each and every property - feedback you can't buy from others because they don't know, don't understand, or don't even think that way. She evaluates your individual situation and gives recommendations based on sound reasoning and market conditions rather than on emotional sales hype. She works the numbers for each client and advises against purchasing or selling until it makes sense for you. She's a master of negotiations. CJ will steer you down the road to financial security. She did it for herself and her family. She's done it and is doing it for others. She can do it for you, too.
